

Ch. 11 Case No.0950026

UNITED STATES BANKRUPTCY COURT
SOUTHERN DISTRICT OF NEW YORK

In re:
MOTORS LIQUIDATION COMPANY et al.,
F/K/A GENERAL MOTORS CORP., ET AL

RESPONSE TO OBJECTION RE INDIVIDUAL DEBT CLAIM No.22063 and Affidavit.

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that the Debtor's objection dated August 18, 2010, admits that the individual amount of $5000 is a secured priority amount.

The basis of the Objection is stated as being "duplicative of a claim allowed by the indenture trustee on behalf of all bondholders". My individual good faith effort is indicative of need and hardship. It is not a request for double payment but an investor's attempt to hold the management of GM, the financial/trading companies, the banks, the accountants and legal firms responsible for the self-dealing and the highly questionable financial reports submitted by GM and, in particular, the firm Weil, Gotshal & Manges, a firm that is listed as having counseled GM between June, 2008 and May, 2009, for a total of $56 million.

Furthermore, corporations have the advantage of perpetual existence, of re-naming, re-financing and re-organization. I cannot go into court as a debtor and pretend not to be in debt because I use another name. That name can simply be added, as it is in the above caption. In the case of General Motors, it is a company that has been able to start repaying bail-out money offered by the Obama government; it's industrial health is undisputable and it's financial health will be secured only if more accurate and more responsible accounting and re-payment of individual bondholders is ordered. The exorbitant unjustified escalation of salaries, pay-outs, benefits and bonuses must also be curbed.

The GM name and quality standards are amongst the most admired in the World. In 2007 and 2008 GM reported sales between 8 and 9 million vehicles a year. At a low average of $30,000 per vehicle sales revenues should have amounted to $240 billion a year. Were executives filing false reports, or did they squander all those revenues? Should an international team of forensic accountants be called to the task of investigating the former GM management team? How accurate are the recent SEC filings?

The latest SEC unaudited 2010 filings by GM are reporting a profit of 1.3 billion and drastically reduced production of about 2.2 million vehicles, though production capacity is still very high at almost 93%. Worldwide payroll expenses are listed at 3.1 billion. (The three pertinent unidentified (?) pages from the GM website are attached. I believe my previous research found reports of $30 billion in profits, still low relative the possible latest revenues of about $200 billion.)

In the financial report to the Court GM aggregate debt is listed at $270 billion, the Voluntary Petition states that consolidated debt is $172 billion. "Aggregate" and "consolidated" are synonyms, so why is there such a huge discrepancy? GM admits that the real debt is "undetermined", as is the total value of assets and properties owned by GM. (The new GM 2010 filing reports total assets as about 131 billion.) The financial statements submitted to the Court omit all mention of what are GM's expenses for salaries, bonuses, retirement payments, yet a list of the names of the former executives is enclosed.

The names of the individuals and their claims for the bonds, especially the 6 million preferred notes are exact and, therefore, for all the reasons herein stated, should be repaid in full.

Affidavit

I, Marianne Lisenko, the claimant, hereby declare under oath and penalty of perjury that my circumstances of hardship make it impossible to be present personally at the September 24 objection hearing in New York. I cannot afford nor find in the short interim an attorney to represent me, it is logistically impossible for me to file this Response electronically and the instructions regarding a telephonic appearance suggest the possibility of a failure to be heard. As well, I cannot afford the exorbitant $30 initial telephonic fee and a $7 per minute(!) fee . I do not have a land line and I have experienced faulty cell phone communications.

And I have signed in Washington, DC, on September 14, 2010

MARIANNE LISENKO

I PRAY THAT JUDGE GERBER WILL ACT ON HIS OWN MOTION AND CALL MY NUMBER , 202-427-9844, SHOULD THIS RESPONSE NOT BE SUFFICIENT FOR THE PURPOSE OF DISMISSING THE DEBTOR'S OBJECTION AND FOR THE PURPOSE OF ORDERING THE FULL RE-PAYMENT OF MY PREFERRED RGM SHARES.

Signed under oath and penalty of perjury that all the above is correct and true on September 14, 2010 in Washington, DC.
